Celebrating 60 years of devotion to duty

The Diamond Jubilee of Her Majesty The Queen is only the second such anniversary in British history, the first being that of her great-great-grandmother Queen Victoria in 1897.

Yet while the longevity of The Queen's reign is impressive, it is her unfaltering devotion to duty and her tireless work on behalf of the nation that make her so beloved. In addition to meeting world leaders ranging from Winston Churchill to President Obama, she has conferred more than 400,000 honours, had two million people for tea and has travelled millions of miles during her long reign.

That's why, in the final Special issue to mark this momentous anniversary, we have looked back at six decades of The Queen's official duties, both at home and on the world stage, captured through eight superb archive photographs.

They reveal not just the pomp and circumstance that surround The Queen's duties, but also the immense dignity and good humour that have characterised her reign. So in addition to the Special Stamps, we are also delighted to offer a range of complementary products that tell the fascinating story Her Majesty's wonderful 60-year reign.
